My Fav Space

BY PAUL OMUNDSON

MANY OF US HAVE A FAVORITE room in our home. Perhaps it's the kitchen or bathroom. But ask any designer and they will tell you that the definition of "room" goes way beyond four walls to include everything from office reception areas to outdoor public spaces. Eugene Magazine asked six local architects and designers, all graduates of the University of Oregon, to choose their favorite room—a place where creativity, functionality, and aesthetics meet in bold, inspiring ways.

Relaxation room

There is an exquisite joy in sinking into warm, steamy, bubbly waters for a nice soak in your own bath spa retreat. Jordan Iverson ('00) of Jordan Iverson Signature Homes believes this is a crucial element to quality life in a home. At this three-story, 2,375-square-foot custom house in the Ferry Street Bridge area, he's created a bathroom Shangri-La. "I really wanted it to be a place to get away, to get refreshed and recharged," he says.
